

I believe that the CBA should not prevail in its challenge to Indiana's Telephone Privacy law. An established business relationship does not give a right to unsolicited marketing over the telephone.